WELCOME

KEN APPELL, EVENT MANAGER

1970 GRABBER ORANGE BOSS 302 — IT COMMANDS ATTENTION

I'd like to personally welcome you to the 2013 edition of the Carlisle Ford Nationals and want to thank each and every one of you for supporting us this year and for many returning attendees. Like many of you here this weekend I've attended this event almost every year since the early 2000s. I am particularly honored to be able to step into the role of Event Manager at a time that the car market is ever-changing.

Throughout the weekend, I hope you take the time to visit the unique displays and celebrations. First, take a look at the 50th Anniversary of the HiPo 289 in Building G. There are some really unique Mustangs, Fairlanes and a few other HiPo 289-powered vehicles that are a real treat to see, including Milo Coleman's Fairlane race car. Secondly, stop by the SVT 20th Anniversary in Building Y, powered by SVTOA. They have assembled a unique group of engineers from the SVT program spanning 20 years. And let's not forget Building T, which features a group of unique vehicles spanning a multitude of years, including daily drivers, race cars and survivors, as well as awesome Ford-powered street rods.

We can't talk about celebrations without mentioning clubs. Team Shelby Northeast is hosting their first annual Team Shelby Grand Nationals by Gate 6. It kicked off earlier this week in Summit Point, WV. The Saleen Owners and Enthusiasts Club is hosting Steve Saleen at their tent during the weekend. There are also some celebrations within unique groups that you might not see at other Ford shows like the Edsel Owners Club, the Merkur Club of America, and Focus Rising powered by FocalJet.com.

Take some time to enjoy this year's event and talk with some of the vehicle owners. Thank you again for celebrating with us Carlisle Events' 40th season!

— Ken Appell, Event Manager

Welcome to the largest all-Ford event in the world. From show-quality F-150s to Shelby GT350s, from parts at the swap meet to complete cars for sale in the car corral, it's all here this weekend.

While the cars here represent a broad spectrum of interests, including Lincoln/Mercury and European Ford alongside First-gen Mustangs and F-series trucks, everyone here shares the same passion for the brand. And if you look back, I'm willing to bet you can pinpoint the moment that sparked that passion for you.

For me, that moment was in 2001, when a Grabber Orange '70 Boss 302 came into the small auto repair shop where I worked. I was fresh out of high school — the oil change guy — and this car's annual once-over was part of my job. It wasn't a driver — it was a full-tilt investment car that only saw the light of day for this ritual service with me.

I grew up in a Chevy family, but that Boss' lopey solid-cam 302 and 4-speed had a deep cool factor I couldn't ignore. That car grabbed me and has held on since — I don't own one, but still think about that car today, lurking in its dark garage, waiting.

Some of you may own the cars that are special to you, others may not. And that's what makes events like this so cool — I'm sure there will be a couple of Boss 302s like the one I used to know on the Carlisle grounds, and seeing one will take me right back in time. Isn't that what it's all about?

If you can't get enough Ford, you owe it to yourself to check out American Car Collector. We cover the blue oval brands in every issue, tracking values at auction all over the world. Grab a free copy at guest services, and check out our special subscription offer in this guide.

In addition to the High Performance 289 Display, you can meet NHRA D/Stock class Champion Milo Coleman. He will be on hand with his 1963 racer and championship trophy.

Special Guest Steve Saleen

Special Displays

Building G • High Performance 289 Display

To celebrate the 50TH Anniversary of the 289 engine, we have assembled a display in Building G (outside Gate 1). In 1963, Ford Motor Company released a no-compromise, high-revving "Challenger" V8, known as the "K-code." In addition to this engine becoming a dominant presence in road racing, it was offered as optional equipment in Fairlanes, Comets and Mustangs. Cobras, GT40s and Shelby GT350s will also be on display.

Building Y • SVT 20th Anniversary

From 1993 to 2013, Ford Motor Company put out some very special high-performance vehicles known as SVTs. There were multiple models of SVT Mustangs, two generations of the Lightning, the SVT Focus and SVT Contour, the SVT Raptor, the Ford GT and in recent years, the Shelby Mustang. This display provides a real look at Ford's performance vehicle division in Building Y. Several SVT engineers are in attendance. Check the schedule for seminars.

Building T • Invitational Display

Visit Building T for a fine display of vehicles including the "Starsky & Hutch" TV show and movie cars. There's a '76 Torino from the TV show ('75-'79) starring David Soul and Paul Michael Glaser as well as a '74 Torino from the 2004 movie starring Ben Stiller and Owen Wilson. This is the first known time a movie car and TV car from the franchise appear together.

Midway, Swap Meet & Car Corral

Visit our partners on the Manufacturers Midway, find a vehicle in the Car Corral and shop the Swap Meet. You'll find new product manufacturers, accessories, parts and memorabilia. Vendors are listed by specialty and alphabetically in this directory. Title transfer services are offered at the Notary Office in the Pavilion. Financial services are available through Orrstown Bank, inside of Building T.

DRAG RACING AT QUARTER ACES

DOWNTOWN CARLISLE PARADE

INVITATIONAL DISPLAY

Drag Racing Friday Night

Everyone is welcome to join us for drag racing on Friday night. Racing takes place at the 1/8 mile, NHRA-sanctioned track of nearby Quarter Aces Drag-O-Way. Qualifying is from 3-6 p.m. and Eliminations and Exhibit Passes begin at 6 p.m. Map below.

Parade and Street Party

Carlisle Events and the Downtown Carlisle Association present the third annual Ford Parade and Downtown Street Party on Saturday. The parade is limited to 400 vehicles. The parade will once again be led by a select group of Ford officials showing off some of their hot new products. If you'd like to join the parade, check with the Downtown Carlisle Association (DCA) outside Guest Services. Anyone who preregistered for the parade must check in with the DCA for their credentials and special gift.

Chris Woodward

After the parade vehicles make their way down Hanover Street, you can enjoy live entertainment by Chris Woodward on the Red 102.3 Stage from 7 to 10 p.m. Woodward, a Three Springs, PA, native (Huntingdon County), is an energetic performer with songs that will have you singing along. Chris played during last year's parade, and has opened for country artists such as Toby Keith, Montgomery Gentry, Jessica Andrews, Lonestar, and many more.

Showfield

Club Challenge & Coolest Hangout • Each year, clubs compete to see which has the most vehicles in attendance, and awards are presented to the top three. There is also an award presented to the club with the coolest hangout. See who won last year on page 14.

Young Guns

"Young Guns" is a showfield class limited to owners age 25 and younger, male or female. It is open to all makes and models of Ford vehicles. There is an area reserved exclusively for this class on the National Parts Depot Showfield. Judging is People's Choice, just like the other classes. This is a great way for younger people in our hobby to meet others and show off what they are doing with their cars.

Installation Alley

A&A Auto Stores on Installation Alley is offering performance exhaust installations from the top manufacturers.

Autocross

Hosted by the Cumberland Valley Corvette Club

The only thing better than a show-ready Ford is a show-ready Ford on the track! The on-site autocross allows drivers to run the track and compare their times to one another. Registration is required and will be available at the track on Sunday only, beginning at 10 a.m. The charge for each vehicle entry is $20. You will be able to make three timed runs of two laps each. Drivers must have a valid driver's license. There will be no classes or awards. This is strictly for fun and bragging rights.

Dyno Testing

Provided by Accelerated Motorsports

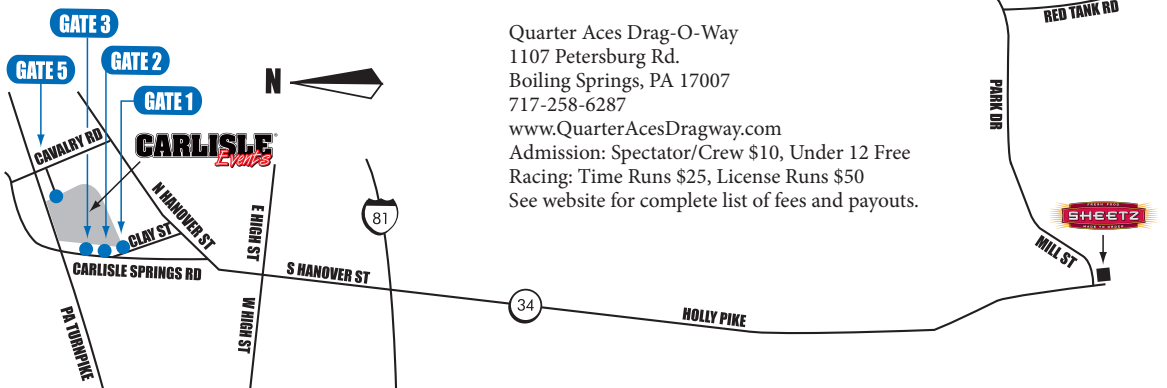

The Dyno machine will be running on Friday and Saturday only. Accelerated provides mobile Dyno tuning for cars and trucks using their Dynojet 248 chassis dynamometer. Their wide-band O2 monitoring will determine if all that precious fuel is making power or just being wasted out the tailpipes.

Classic Restos TV Show

Your car could be featured on international television! Mark "Fletch" Fletcher will be filming the Australian TV show, Classic Restos, during the event. Your car or truck may be seen in Australia, New Zealand, the United Kingdom and here in the states. Classic Restos airs on TUFF TV, which is available in many major markets nationwide. When an episode is due to air, we'll post information on our Facebook page as to how you can watch.

Burnout Contest

No Carlisle event would be complete without the burnout contest. Pre-registration is required at the Guest Services Building. A show sticker (i.e. registered for vending or showfield), driver's license and proof of insurance are required. Limited to 10 vehicles and three minutes per participant.

VENDOR PROFILE: MORE THAN TIRES

More Than Tires: More Than Your Average Success Story

By Mike Garland

For decades, Carlisle Events has hosted a wide array of vendors as part of its annual automotive-themed weekends. Some of those vendors are national companies that position themselves on the Manufacturer's Midway; others are private people who rent space for a weekend to sell their wares. In between fall vendors like More Than Tires, a professional company that is neither a private individual, nor national company.

More Than Tires has been a staple at Carlisle for more than a decade and attends many of our events. They're located near Gate 2 during Spring and Fall Carlisle as well as Corvettes at Carlisle, while holding a midway position during Ford, GM, Chrysler and Truck. Why does More Than Tires have such a friendly partnership with Carlisle and vice versa? Well, the story goes back many years before More Than Tires was all that they are today.

Around the year 2000, Carlisle Events lost a major player for its event season when Sears discontinued its program of tire and battery sales. Prior to that, they were one of the largest onsite tire vendors. With this massive void, patrons were continually asking, "What happened to the tire vendor?" Management at Carlisle quickly realized that something needed to be done. With that in mind, Bob Troutman, who was the front-line rep for Sears was contacted and retained by Carlisle Events to run a new tire company, one that would operate as a for-profit business, but one that didn't have a home other than onsite at Carlisle and only during event weekends. Not long after, customers at Carlisle once again had a wide selection of tires to pick from.

With his industry contacts, Troutman made the company, known then as More Than Tires, a successful entity between April and October annually. The problem, if you could call it a problem, was that Carlisle Events found itself in possession of a business that was doing so well that it had to make a choice. The company, long known as a car show promoter, now was, in a sense, a tire vendor too. With wheels spinning in a forward direction (pun intended), Carlisle and Troutman began discussions with a company known then as Merrick & Fair about doing business during events. As conversations progressed, one topic led to another and the subject was broached that Merrick & Fair take ownership of Carlisle Events' More Than Tire operation. The rubber met the road (more bad puns) and what once was a More Than Tires company backed by Carlisle Events became the business name for Merrick & Fair's new company.

Since then, More Than Tires has flourished beyond ownership's wildest dreams. They have an actual store now, located on the Walnut Bottom Road in Carlisle, and sell, as their name indicates, more than tires. At the company store and at Carlisle during events, you can find a great selection of wheels and tires, while the store itself hosts ASE-certified technicians that specialize in general repairs. This work includes, but is not limited to, general repair of gasoline and diesel engines, transmission repair, alignments, shocks & struts, suspensions, oil changes, brakes, batteries, cooling systems and scheduled maintenance along with PA safety and emissions inspection.

Pete Fair, president and majority shareholder of More Than Tires (with Bob Troutman, Chris Fair and Rick Merrick) noted recently that "setting up shop at Carlisle is beneficial for many reasons for us. First, overall, it's a good move financially. We do better at some shows than others but in the end, it's a great result. Plus, for the thousands of people who come to events at Carlisle, seeing the More Than Tires name and product is great brand exposure." Fair continued by noting, "Many times at Carlisle we make a contact and find that we have a customer for life. We'll get a call weeks in front of a show from someone out of state or out of country who is looking for a specific type of tire or wheel. We'd never have those types of customers if it weren't for our long-standing relationship with Carlisle Events."

Along with moving their own products onsite, More Than Tires has been a great ambassador for past sponsors like Ground Force, Green Filter, Sta-Bil and more. So if you are looking for tires or wheels right now, stop by their spaces on the Manufacturer's Midway. If you are looking for more, visit their store here in town, located at 901 Walnut Bottom Rd, Carlisle, PA 17015 or call at (717) 243-0905.

Fletch Shares Love of American Car Shows and Route 66

By Mike Garland

For the past three years at the Carlisle Fairgrounds, a quirky man with a camera, tripod, fedora and intriguing accent has been attending events. First it was the Carlisle Chrysler Nationals in 2011, then in 2012 he came back for the Carlisle Ford Nationals and Corvettes at Carlisle. Now, with the 2013 season upon us, this international man of mystery returns. No, it's not Austin Powers, it's a bloke by the name of Mark "Fletch" Fletcher.

Fletch, as we'll refer to him going forward, not only comes back to the Carlisle Ford Nationals for the second time, he's setting up residence nearby for the next six weeks. During his stay, he'll cover the fun this weekend, plus visit the GM Nationals for the first time as well as the Carlisle Chrysler Nationals. After all of that, he'll go home before a planned return once more for Corvettes at Carlisle.

You might be thinking to yourself, why does a TV star from nearly 10,000 miles away want to come to Carlisle? The answer is simple — for the cars, the people and the excitement; the same reasons you come. You see, Fletch has always been a car guy, but hasn't always been a TV guy. Now that he's successful at both, he wants to make coverage of events at Carlisle a regular part of his production schedule. Cool, right?

So, before we can look at the here and now with Fletch, we have to travel the roads he did on his way to America's Automotive Hometown, Carlisle, Pennsylvania.

In April, I had the opportunity to spend over an hour on the phone with Fletch and ask him a bunch of questions. Hopefully they'll help you better understand what makes him go!

MG: Talk about your childhood, growing up, etc.

Fletch: I grew up in a suburb about 15 miles south of Sydney, Australia, and was kind of a normal kid as those things go. I did four years of high school, graduated on a Friday, and by Monday, I started working and haven't stopped since. My hometown area is in some ways like Carlisle, plus with all the drives on Route 66 I've taken, I see some Midwestern aspects too. I guess where I grew up is just like some of my favorite parts of the states.

MG: What type of work did you do and have you done prior to your TV career?

Fletch: I worked multiple jobs, including retail within the building industry. I sold plumbing supplies for the company and I learned not only how to sell the supplies, I learned how they work and how to communicate with people and sell myself. I did it all for this company, from stock control to shipping, receiving, accounting and the like. With all the gained business knowledge, I became self-employed in 1993 when I started a voice-over business. My ultimate goal was to break into the TV business. As part of my VO work, I recorded on-hold messages, did character voices and got involved with comedy. I also recorded voice-to-tape for railway stations and was even the voice featured on tapes that car dealerships gave those who just purchased a car.

MG: Was there anything that you did to help make you "ready" for the jump to TV?

Fletch: I made a point to be in front of a live audience every Friday for nearly 20 years. I worked the room at the local RSL (Return Services League) clubs. These were places where soldiers returning home could go for some fun.

MG: When did you first become interested in cars?

Fletch: As a little kid, maybe four or five years old, I can recall loving cars, trucks, planes; really anything that moved or made a sound. I never played sports. I just loved cars. In 1990 I started actively attending car events and five years later, I owned my first American car, a 1974 Buick Electra.

MG: When did the transition take place from attending shows to covering them?

Fletch: In 2000, I started filming events as their official event DVD provider. About five years later, someone suggested that my work should be on TV and that is when I got the idea to do a show. I sent a demo disc to a network and the rest is history.

MG: As a self-professed car guy, what type of Ford-branded car would you enjoy owning if you could?

Fletch: I really loved the 1960's era Ford Galaxies. The ones based on the 390 were such big, full-sized cars, and I'd love to be able to cruise my local streets in one.

MG: What is your favorite U.S. city and why?

Fletch: That is a tough question to answer because the ones that I do fancy each hold a special meaning to me. I love Chicago, but Detroit is a close favorite too. Their respective legacies and history are each unique, plus Detroit has a very special place in my heart from an automotive standpoint. I can't forget about Carlisle too, and I mean that. You don't just come here to see a show — whatever you are into, Carlisle Events has it all. It is one of the most diverse places to come to in the U.S. if you are into car events, and it's such a main hub of automotive activity.

"Events here are a big family and I am happy to be part of it"

MG: What is your favorite automotive activity that you've done stateside?

Fletch: Driving Route 66. I have done it a few times and it's great every time. I enjoy the buildings, the people and its history. It may not be the oldest road in the country, but it has gotten the most press and I really enjoy driving it.

MG: Share some of your impressions of the Ford event in 2012.

Fletch: The response from the people at the show was amazing towards me. They really enjoyed that I came so far to be part of the event. People were very welcoming of me. The show was impressive with a massive array of cars.

MG: What are you looking forward to most this time around at Carlisle?

Fletch: The hospitality, the friendliness and the camaraderie of the people. Events here are a big family and I am happy to be part of it.

As you can see, there is a lot to Fletch. Our time on the phone lasted much longer than this piece, but ultimately he credits the Chrysler, Bloomsburg and Import event manager Ed Buczeskie for having the faith in him. "I am loyal to Carlisle because everyone here is loyal to me. Ed was the first person in the states that really believed in me and that keeps me coming back."

In all, Fletch has produced over 250 episodes of his program, which has also included episodes specific to the truck and motorcycle hobby. He's on TV in Australia, New Zealand, the U.K. and here in the states on TUFF TV. He can best be described as the Dennis Gage of Australian TV, and his long-term goal is to see his Classic Restos international audience grow.

So if you see Fletch on a car, or aisle filming, stop by and say hello. You never know, you might even end up on TV around the world.

Specialty Vehicles Help Ford Carve Out a Successful Performance Niche

By John M. Clor, Ford Performance Group Communications Manager

Ford Motor Company created the Special Vehicle Team (SVT) in 1991, when senior execs Neil Ressler and Bob Rewey decided to move performance vehicle development and marketing outside of the Ford mainstream to more quickly capitalize on niche vehicle opportunities. The idea was to assemble passionate driving enthusiasts within Ford and some of its key suppliers into a small, cross-functional group of engineers, product planners and marketing professionals with a common mission: create vehicles to satisfy the desires of knowledgeable, high-performance-auto enthusiasts.

SVT was charged to develop and market factory high-performance “halo” vehicles that would add luster to the company’s lineup — or “Polish the Ford Oval.” To that end, the team focused on creating limited-production cars and trucks with balanced performance attributes — vehicles that stop as well as they accelerate, ride as well as they handle and, above all, are fun to drive! All vehicles that wear the SVT badge were designed and developed with four hallmarks in mind: Performance, Substance, Exclusivity and Value.

The official launch of Ford SVT came during the 1992 Chicago Auto Show with the unveiling of the 1993 SVT Mustang Cobra and SVT F-150 Lightning pickup. Both went on sale in February of '93. The return of a limited-production Cobra model gave Ford a new flagship performance Mustang over the GT, only this time using subtle but distinctive styling upgrades instead of decals, and a unique powertrain and suspension. SVT borrowed a page from Shelby’s playbook for its top-of-the line, 235-hp 5.0-liter V8, initially lifting its performance hardware off the shelves of the Ford Racing Performance Parts bin. Later in the model year, a 107-unit run of race-prepped, lightweight SVT Cobra R models sold out before the build had even begun. Even though production was limited to 5,000 cars, the 1993 SVT Mustang Cobra and Cobra R proved to be a worthy farewell gesture for the Fox-body Mustang.

SVT didn’t miss a beat when the completely revamped SN-95 Mustang came out in 1994. A convertible version of the group’s 1994 Cobra paced the annual Indy 500 race, and the following year, the exit of Ford’s small-block Windsor V8 from the Mustang lineup was well celebrated with another race-prepped Cobra R model. Except this time SVT chose to swap out the Cobra’s 302-ci V8 for a one-off 351-ci race engine, good for 300 horses. With the bigger engine and extra power, as well as the addition of a 20-gallon fuel cell in place of the standard Mustang gas tank, the 1995 SVT Mustang Cobra R was designed to be more competitive on the racetrack than the 1993 R model. But relatively few of the 250 Cobra Rs produced for 1995 had ever turned a wheel in anger, as most were quickly snapped up by collectors.

Mainstream product development’s Team Mustang took the engineering lead on the 1996 SVT Cobra to help fit it with an all-new, hand-built 4.6L 32-valve V8 modular motor, producing 305 hp. A new bulging, snorkeled hood was the biggest exterior clue that a dual overhead-cam (DOHC) 4.6-liter was providing motivation — the most powerful Mustang engine since the last of the big-blocks had made their final appearance in 1971.

Mustang marched into its 35th anniversary year with freshened sheet metal, major powertrain improvements and more refined handling. The initial SN-95 bodystyle lasted exactly as long as the Mustang II, giving way to the so-called “New Edge” look in 1999. SVT’s Cobra also gained improved horsepower from its 4.6-liter — now at 320 hp. But the biggest news was an all-new, trailing-arm style independent rear suspension system, making the '99 SVT Cobra the first-ever production Mustang to come equipped with an IRS. Featuring aluminum control arms, the IRS unit was mounted in a self-contained cradle that bolted in place of the standard Mustang’s live-axle suspension. While not the best setup for drag racing, the IRS-equipped Mustang Cobra could deliver true sports-car-like handling in the corners.

After discovering an issue with the actual power output of the 1999 Cobra’s V8s, the Special Vehicle Team was allowed to regain control of engineering from the mainstream powertrain group, and SVT canceled plans to produce a 2000 Cobra while it came up with a permanent fix. With the regular-production Mustang Cobra being re-engineered for the 2001 model year, SVT decided to produce its third and final Cobra R model in 2000 — this one wilder than ever before.

Stuffed with a naturally aspirated DOHC 5.4-liter V8, the 2000 Cobra R delivered 385 hp through the first six-speed manual transmission ever offered in a Mustang. Only 300 of these street-legal racing models, all painted red, came out of Dearborn Assembly — each instantly recognizable with a unique domed hood, rear deck wing and front air splitter. The 2000 R was immediately crowned the fastest factory-built Mustang in history.

Determined to leave the SVT Mustang Cobra’s horsepower issues in the dust, then-SVT chief engineer John Coletti decided to put the 2002 Cobra program on ice in order to buy enough time to give the 2003 SVT Cobra a quantum leap in performance. Sure enough, for Coletti’s '03 SVT Cobra rocked the enthusiast world with the performance of its Eaton supercharged DOHC 4.6-liter “Terminator” V8. Making upwards of 390 horsepower, it became the most powerful production Mustang in history.

In the wake of a corporate restructuring at the time, the SVT operation was mainstreamed after the 2004 model year, just prior to a huge industry downturn. The SVT business model, which was that SVT was run outside of mainstream Ford, had separate Engineering and Marketing and Sales operations and a limited, specially certified dealer distribution network, was revamped to run more hand-in-hand with mainstream product development and marketing work.

While SVT was hard at work evolving its F-150 Lightning pickup truck after it was moved to the PN-96 chassis for 1999, it also launched the SVT Contour sports sedan, and both three- and five-door versions of the SVT Focus. What’s more, the Special Vehicle Team was responsible for the design, development and specialty production of the 2005-06 Ford GT supercar.

For 2005, Mustang was about to enter one of its most important transformations ever — one that returned the iconic Pony Car back to its design roots. Heading up that rebirth was Hau Thai-Tang, who had cut his engineering teeth doing chassis work on the Newman-Hass racing team for Ford. An all-new car — codenamed the S197 — successfully tied Mustang's classic design cues with modern Ford engineering.

With the regular-production Mustang GT now making 300 hp, there were fewer people waiting around for a high-performance model to come along. Yet that wasn't a concern for the go-fast folks at SVT, who were working on an all-new 2006 SVT Cobra that they targeted to be the mother of all performance Mustangs, powered by a supercharged 5.4-liter V8. Only this time around, corporate reorganization meant that SVT's S197-based Mustang Cobra soon became the 2007-09 Shelby GT500, packing an astounding 500 horsepower.

With some help from Shelby Automobiles and Ford Racing Performance Parts, the 2008-2009 model years saw the release of GT500 "King of the Road" or "KR" versions for the extreme Mustang performance niche customer — good for immeasurable collectability and 540 hp. And for the restyled 2010 Mustang, the KR's 540 horses had found their way under the hood of the regular production Shelby GT500, which retook the tag of the most powerful factory Mustang.

Also for 2010 came the Ford F-150 Raptor pickup truck, marking a decidedly different take on an SVT performance vehicle. Ford truck enthusiasts had long-awaited a replacement for the 1999-2004 SVT F-150 Lightning, but instead of getting an all-new high-performance street truck, SVT engineers developed a performance pickup for a totally different enthusiast segment: off-roaders. The result was a highly capable off-road trail-runner with a unique suspension designed to out-perform any other factory produced OEM 4x4 pickup on the market.

Come 2011, SVT gave the GT500 more features and a brand-new powertrain: Gone was the supercharged cast-iron V8 that made its debut in the 2007 GT500, and in its place was an all-new, aluminum-block 5.4-liter that pushed output to 550 supercharged horsepower. Raptor also gained an upgraded standard powertrain, plus an additional cab style for 2011. Gone was the base 320-horsepower 5.4-liter V-8, with the previously optional 6.2-liter V-8 (producing 411 horsepower and 434 foot-pounds of torque) taking its place as the standard Raptor engine. Also added was the availability of a four-door SuperCrew version.

For 2013, GT500 again scored a bigger, more powerful powertrain — this time an eye-popping 662 horses from a high-tech, all-aluminum 5.8-liter V8 topped with an Eaton 2.3-liter supercharger.

2009 Shelby GT500
427 Pace Car

Stephen Donapel, Levittown, PA

Other upgrades and refinements were on tap for 2014 versions of both SVT nameplates as the Ford Special Vehicle Team permanently etched its mark on the industry as the undisputed leader in factory-built performance vehicles and the most successful niche vehicle operation in history.

Over the past two decades, SVT has developed a rabid owner following embodied by an owner group it had once founded, the Special Vehicle Team Owners Association. Today an independent organization, the SVTOA, is a private enterprise "dedicated to the enjoyment, care and history of all SVT vehicles produced by Ford Motor Company." The entire Ford enthusiast community joins all SVT vehicle owners and club members everywhere in celebrating the 20th anniversary of SVT products in the marketplace. Here's hoping for many more years to come!

2014 Holman & Moody 50th Anniversary TdF Mustang

Legendary Race Team Enters Late-Model Arena with a Unique Tribute to Mustang Race History

By Marcie Cipriani, National Director of SVT Owners Association

Two years ago, while working on my book, the Ford GT Complete Owners Experience, I had the pleasure to meet Lee Holman when he spoke at a gathering of Ford GT owners in New York. At the time, I didn't know much about the history of the Holman & Moody race team, and didn't realize that I was in the presence of Ford Racing royalty. Being a part of the collective wisdom of any true Ford fan, the name Holman & Moody has always been vaguely familiar to me — which, considering the fact that I am a 40-year-old woman who lives in the mountains of Pennsylvania, says good things about the name recognition that the company still carries. After being thoroughly entertained by Mr. Holman's tales of the "good old days" of racing, I quickly got up to speed on the history of the company and invited him to attend our annual track event, SVT Superfest, as our guest speaker, where he again entertained the crowd with stories from racing's past.

Racing aficionados, especially those who have followed NASCAR, may be very familiar with Holman & Moody's legendary status in that series, as well as road racing, drag racing and rallying. From their start in 1958, it seemed as though they had branched out into almost every form of four-wheeled racing and beyond — Holman & Moody engines even powered many race boats that are prized collector items today. But what you might not know about Holman & Moody is a little piece of Mustang history that was brought to my attention by Mr. Holman during his retelling of his experiences with Ford Racing.

Before Saleen, before Roush, even before Shelby, the legendary Holman & Moody team helped bring home the first professional race win for the Mustang. In September 1964, the Alan Mann Racing Team, based in England, fielded three Mustangs in the 4,000-mile long "Tour de France Automobile" rally. The three bright red Mustang coupes were specially prepped for the race using engines and performance parts supplied by Holman & Moody. This grueling 10-day event consisted of 17 different stages of hillclimbs, road races and even laps at France's most famous race courses, including Reims and LeMans. The Mustangs competed in the Touring class against the mighty 3.8 Jaguar Mk IIs. In the end, the Mustangs finished the Touring class in first place with Peter Procter and Andrew Cowan and second place with Peter Harper and David Pollard, definitively upstaging their European competitors, and making history as the first professional race win for Ford's new Pony Car. The win marked the beginning of Ford's Total Performance initiative and proved that the Mustang was ready to be more than just a "secretary's car."

This certainly was not the first rodeo for Holman & Moody. By 1964, they had been dominating race tracks around the world for years and would go on to be a critical part of the Total Performance campaign, building the most influential Ford race cars of the time, including the race-winning GT40s that beat Ferrari at LeMans in 1966. The 1964 victory in the Tour de France Automobile rally became a piece of Mustang history that has been unknown or overlooked by even the most die-hard Mustang fans for almost 50 years.

Over the years, the Holman & Moody shop in Charlotte, NC, has kept busy restoring and prepping vintage race cars for drivers around the world as well as building new GT Mark II LeMans race cars to original 1966 specs, creating a finished product nearly identical to the famous GT40s of the 1960s. On any given day, the race shop hosts a number of vintage Mustangs, Fairlanes, GT40s, even Thunderbirds, and fills orders for restoration parts from around the world.

More recently, these masters of historic race cars have begun a push to re-enter the performance market and create products for modern Fords under their newly formed HM Performance division.

"We decided it was time to bring Holman & Moody and Ford back together, and with the 50th Anniversary of the Tour de France win approaching, 2014 seemed to be the perfect time," said Lee Holman. "The idea was sparked by Edsel Ford during a visit to the shop a few years ago and support from within Ford, the Mustang program and Ford Racing has really helped move this project along!"

The HM Performance division, headed by Bob D'Amato and Mark Besso, set course to create a unique post-title Mustang upgrade package, designed to commemorate the cars that won the 1964 race, with similar enhancements to the base Mustang. With help from engineer Jay Rabe, they devised a package consisting of carefully selected Ford Racing Performance Parts and custom-designed Holman & Moody components that make for a finely tuned and customizable Mustang ready for the road or the track.

The 2014 Holman & Moody TdF Mustang is the result of a collaboration between Holman & Moody, SVTOA, Ford Racing and the Mustang marketing team, all of whom are excited to celebrate the 50th Anniversary of an important achievement in Mustang racing history.

"One of the most unique features of this package is that it is the first street-legal upgrade kit offered by Holman & Moody," remarked D'Amato, president of HM Performance. "Up to this point, every performance part or complete car produced by the shop has been intended for race use, not for street use. Our unique blend of Ford Racing Performance Parts and Holman & Moody components make this Mustang a true performer on the street or track, and the finished product is a fitting tribute to the 1964 race winners."

THE HOLMAN & MOODY TdF MUSTANG TEAM: WILL ANDERSON, BUILDER; BOB D'AMATO, PRESIDENT OF HM PERFORMANCE; JAY RABE, ENGINEER; MARK BESSO, EXPANSION DEVELOPMENT MANAGER OF HM PERFORMANCE; LEE HOLMAN, PRESIDENT OF HOLMAN & MOODY, INC.

50th Anniversary Holman & Moody TdF Mustang

The 2014 Holman & Moody TdF Mustang consists of a specially optioned Mustang GT, which is upfitted with a unique kit of hand-picked parts exclusive to this vehicle. The kit can be installed post-title by your local dealership, or for you purists, the entire kit can be installed at the Holman & Moody shop in Charlotte, NC.

The nuts and bolts of this car make it a unique offering, combining the best of Ford Racing Performance Parts and Holman & Moody-engineered components. "With a starting price of $9,896, our base TdF kit is an affordable and effective upgrade to the already capable Mustang GT platform and consists of several exclusive items that are available only from Holman & Moody," commented Lee Holman.

Production will be limited to 500 units, and each one will receive a serial number plate and be entered into a Holman & Moody TdF Registry to ensure exclusivity. For more information on the 2014 Holman & Moody TdF Mustang please, visit www.HM50th.com.
