May 10-11, 2014 • Carlisle, PA

Welcome to the show that features the latest and greatest in what is hot in the Tuner and Sport Compact culture, Carlisle Performance and Style 2014. This year Carlisle Events turns 40 years old. Many of you may not have even hit that age yet! Forty years ago, who would have thought that there would even be an event like this? The driving force behind our events has always been our passion and we know you share that passion by being a true car enthusiast.

What will be the hottest cars, items or trends 40 years from now? That's up to you and generations to come to figure out! Speaking of hot cars, lets talk about the here and now — Carlisle Performance and Style 2014! This year you will find some of the hottest cars from up and down the east coast. Check out the East Coast Bullies display in Building Z for some of the top builds or get low with the Lowlapalooza Display in Building T. Don't forget to check out some trends in the Euro realm with the Eurovilion display in the pavilion, and check out the cleanfocused and Timeless Motor Groups in their respective areas.

Talking about hot things, make sure you mark your calendar for our new date next year! In 2015, July 17th-19th will be the new date for P&S, same location, even hotter event!

FRIDAY NIGHT KICK-OFF

Cruise-In

The showfield registration office opens at noon, gates open at 3 and the Cruise-In starts at 4. Showfield participants may simply park to be eligible for three “Carlisle Pick” awards. We will present the awards at around 8 p.m. (after the limbo ends).

Low Car Limbo

Any vehicle that is registered for the showfield may enter the limbo contest. You must register for the contest on Friday at Guest Services 4 - 6:45 p.m. Cars will take a pass under the bar, parade-style, and the last vehicle to make it under the bar without knocking it down (or smoking their tires) wins. Driver’s license and proof of insurance required to register.

Drifting Exhibition

Los Goonies will be giving our Friday night participants a special drifting show under the lights. Just make your way to the track in the north field at 8 p.m.

EVENT LISTING

Burnout Contest

No Carlisle event would be complete without the burnout contest. See the smoke show and count how many tires pop in front of the Grandstand Saturday evening.

To participate, you must register at Guest Services, have a show sticker on your car (vending or showfield), and show your driver’s license and proof of insurance. Limited to 10 vehicles and three minutes per participant.

Ms. Carlisle Performance & Style

Cash prizes totaling $600 will be awarded to the top three finishers in the Ms. Carlisle Performance & Style Pageant. The contest consists of two rounds — sportswear and swimwear, and winners will be selected by a panel of judges.

Contestants must be 18 with valid ID and sign up at Guest Services by 12:30 p.m. on Saturday. Complete rules, contest format and registration forms are available at Guest Services.

Ms. Carlisle People’s Choice

Last month we ran a contest on Facebook and asked fans to vote for Ms. Carlisle Performance & Style People’s Choice. The winner was determined by the number of “likes” their photo received. She received admission to the event, a $100 cash prize and a spot in the onsite pageant.

Wheelie Simulator

Ever wonder what it would be like to ride a wheelie without putting yourself at risk? Take your chance with the iWheelie ride machine. It’s equipped with a sport bike attached to a specially designed braking system that creates a similar feel of the street and allows you to do a wheelie. It is available Saturday only on the Midway and a fee applies.

Audio Competitions

and Street Slam (3X) and IASCA (2X) competitions on Saturday and Sunday. All audio competitors must be registered for the showfield. To compete, visit Adrenaline Audio on Row IB near Building Y.

Judging

Drive-through judging is hosted by eJudged.com. An explanation of judging standards is on page 12. For those showfield participants who registered to be judged, be sure to find your judging time on page 7 or at Guest Services.

Awards Presentation

The winners' list is posted at 9 a.m. Sunday in front of the Grandstand. If you have won an award, go to the Guest Services building to pick it up and check in for the optional winners' parade. If you are unable to be here Sunday, you may check the winners' list online. If you'd like your award sent to you, just call us with your $10 payment.

Top Flight Awards

Every show vehicle will be considered to receive a Carlisle Elite Award, including all the special displays. Best of all, four of those winners will receive cash prizes! Winners will be announced on Sunday during the Awards Presentation. The categories are:

Club Challenge & Coolest Hangout

Each year, clubs compete to see which one has the most vehicles registered for the showfield, and awards are presented to the top three. There is also an award presented to the club with the coolest hangout. See who won last year on page 34.

GUEST PROFILE: AL FOSSELMAN

2013 Best of Show Winner

By Shannon Hamblin

For some car enthusiasts, the thing they love most about cars is working on them. For Pennsylvania native Al Fosselman, working on cars and trying to make them more aggressive, better looking, tuned, etc., is exactly what he is passionate about. Fosselman owns his own shop “Al’s Customs,” in Newport, PA. Although he enjoys working on others’ projects, he loves getting the chance to play with his own toys.

Fosselman owns a 1994 Widebody Mazda Miata which won the “Best in Show” award at last year’s Carlisle Performance & Style. He did all of the work to the car. Many major modifications have been done to the car since he bought it ten years ago. Some of them include customizing the interior and exterior, adding a fully-built engine with custom turbo, a custom big break setup and much more. Fosselman said “I learned a lot of the fabrication, body and upholstery work by trial and error. I went to school for electronics so I learned a lot of computer set-up and wiring there.” He claims to have had a love of cars since birth, or at least as long as he remembers. He received a lot of knowledge from his father who was always working on cars and other machines at home. “I learned a lot of mechanical things from him and a lot about cars in general,” he said.

His Miata is definitely his prize car. Not only did it wow the people at Carlisle, the attendees and his sponsors at the 2013 SEMA event in Las Vegas seemed to be impressed with his work also. He received many great compliments about the car. The Miata used to be a daily driver but now is strictly a show car.

Fosselman has been attending P&S for quite a few years, and really enjoys his time here. He is very thankful for receiving the award last year. “It made me very happy to win the honor of Best of Show. I’ve shown this car for years at Carlisle and I put a lot of hard work into it each year. It is always great to receive recognition for all the hard work,” exclaimed Fosselman. Although he plans on returning to P&S this year, he does not believe he will be showing a car. He is in the process of working on a new show car but most likely won’t have it done in time. Look for Al’s car next year — it’s sure to be another beautiful project.

VENDOR PROFILE: R MILLER AUTOBODY SEMA-Quality Craftsmanship

By Shannon Hamblin

Every year it is great to see local businesses attend our events. R Miller Autobody of Palmyra, PA has attended P&S for the last five years as a vendor. Not only do they get to check out all of the sweet rides while they are here, they also get to see some cars they have worked on over the years. Cars of their own have also been in the show. You may have seen their custom Chevy Cruz. The shop partnered with “Fibre Glast” to work on this car. They provided the special custom fiberglass weave on the hood. Steve Shearer, an employee at R Miller, states, “We are all car show guys here and always look forward to attending Carlisle every year.”

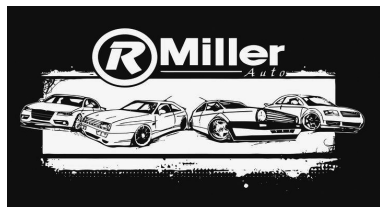

R Miller Autobody opened its doors 13 years ago. Ryan Miller, the owner of the shop, started the business due to his knowledge of cars and his experience working with fiberglass. He had previously worked at “TC Composites” where he made fiberglass kayaks. Miller has always had a passion for cars and a vision to do things that people said couldn’t be done.

The shop specializes in auto styling and has won countless awards for their work. They have been featured in magazines including Euro Turner, Performance VW, S3 Magazine and many more. This small shop is nationally known due to its first-place wins at the SEMA show in Las Vegas.

Although styling is their “thing,” they offer other services. Their shop has a team of knowledgeable and skilled technicians who provide general maintenance, PA state inspections, fabrication, welding and creating carbon-fiber and fiberglass parts.

“I enjoy knowing that people have recognized our work from all over the country. We are a shop in a small town and it is crazy when someone from California says they have heard of us,” said Shearer.

Look for the R Miller logo on cars in the special displays to see their work up close. Check them out online at rmillerautobody.com, on Facebook /R-Miller-autobody and Instagram.

Hot Trends at SEMA

By Ken Appell

Every year the SEMA event (Specialty Equipment Market Association) showcases thousands of automotive products and vehicles. It is huge. Representatives from magazines, aftermarket companies, OEMs and many more walk side-by-side to check it out. Some highlights from the 2013 event include hot hatchbacks, wheel fitment, big brake kits and more.

There were a few key trends in the Performance and Style market that were major draws at the event. Currently the "Hot Hatchback" market is hotter-than-ever with offerings from the likes of Ford, with their Focus ST, and Hyundai, with their Veloster, as well as many more. Every aisle had one of these cars on display or parts developed for a "Hot Hatchback." Another hot trend is the coupe market, with offerings like the Subaru BRZ, Scion FR-S, Lexus LFA and more. This market is on fire and we don't see it being put out anytime soon.

Located on almost every P&S-minded show vehicle were other hot topics and trends. There was a big push on wheel fitment and the emphasis on your wheel and tire combo being flush with your fenders. We all know this has been going on for years in the P&S market but we are seeing it on other vehicles now. Coupled with the wheel fitment topic are the suspension and brake upgrade markets. Companies are no longer focused on just selling springs. There were coilover kits left and right in the suspension companies' booths. More than ever, brake companies were featured on almost every show car with large "big brake kits" set perfectly to spec within a wheel's barrel.

We saw a lot of vehicles featuring new cleaning options for P&S enthusiasts. Have you ever had an older import with that "old car smell?" Our friends at Meguiar's have the cure for this and call it "Air Re-Fresher." Used somewhat like a bug bomb, this is a set-it-and-forget-it system that allows it to penetrate the interior and ventilation system bringing your car back to a new car smell in less than an afternoon of cleaning. Other chemicals introduced by our friends at Meguiar's was their new DUB Car Care line. Be sure to visit them on the Midway to pick up some of these new products.

Racing and Drifting on a Budget

By NICOclub

Have you ever had the desire to race your car, or sling it sideways with smoke spewing out from under the rear tires like you see on TV? For most people, it is an extremely expensive hobby. They often say, the easiest way to make a million dollars racing, is to start out with two million. But there is a way to get involved on a much smaller budget. It's called autocross. And if you'd rather have fun going sideways than getting the best lap time, the grassroots drifting sanctions can actually be affordable.

Autocross

Let me start off by introducing you to autocross. To those unfamiliar with the term, autocross is simply a car race that usually takes place in a parking lot, or sometimes on a small racetrack. There are numerous turns to navigate, and the course is typically laid out with pylons marking the edge of the track. Cars navigate through the course one car at a time, so there is rarely an incident that leaves a vehicle inoperable. That's a really good thing, considering most autocrossers drive their car to the track, and would like to drive home at the end of the day as well. It's you against the clock. Of course, you can always compare your time against others in the same class, but you don't have to worry about another car bumping you, or worse yet, you causing another car to wreck. Most autocross tracks are a one-lap run that usually lasts about a minute.

One of the great things about autocross is that you can race virtually any car. There are a few exceptions depending on your local sanction, but typically just about anything is allowed. Of course, all cars have to go through a technical inspection before they enter the track, but this is just to make it safe for everyone. Things that are inspected before you take your own vehicle on a track are things like leaky fluids, seatbelts, tires, and loose items in the car. If your car is leaking oil or coolant, that might not be as dangerous to you, but for the next person to go, it could cause an accident. The most important thing is to be safe and the second most important is to have fun. A Snell-approved helmet is required for autocrossing, but many events will allow you to borrow one. However, if you are going to do more than one or two events, you should invest in one. Snell safety approvals expire after 10 years, so if you are looking for a helmet, it is best to spend the money to get a newer approval rating.

One of the most popular sanctions for autocross events is the SCCA (Sports Car Club of America). The SCCA has chapters all over North America, and to sign up, all you have to do is visit their website (www.scca.com) to find your regional chapter and where local events are held. You can then show up and race in a single event, or sign up for a year-long membership and save on your event entry. Typical entry costs are $25-$35 per event.

Once you're at an event, don't hesitate to ask questions. Many first-time racers are nervous to ask questions, and you shouldn't be. As an experienced racer, I can tell you that the most gratifying scenario is a new racer that asks as many questions as he or she can come up with. It is as just as exciting to those of us who are experienced, to answer your questions and see your enthusiasm, as it is to be racing your car for the first time. Teaching people how to set up their cars, how to take the corners, and how to get the best lap time is perhaps even more fun than driving itself. So absorb the knowledge around the track. Learn as much as you can. You are surrounded with a wealth of knowledge.

Before any autocross event, all the racers will have an opportunity to walk the course to get a better visual of the way the track is laid out. Sometimes, because the course outline is designated by pylons, the number of pylons in the parking lot can look overwhelming at first. That is why it is a good reason to walk the course first.

Drifting

While autocrossing may seem like fun to many people, another type of driving event may appeal to you instead — drifting. Drifting is a term that may be more familiar to you than autocrossing, but just in case you aren't familiar with it, let me explain exactly what it is. Drifting is sliding your car in a controlled manner around corners. It is intended to be a show of driving skill as opposed to a timed event. In competition, drifters are awarded points for things like entry angle and proximity to a wall or obstacle. It is not a sport you want to get into with your daily driver. However, if you have a rear-wheel-drive vehicle and don't mind a little body damage, you can get into the sport relatively cheap.

Just like the SCCA for autocross events, drifting also has sanctions and local chapters with local events. Similarly to autocross, local drifting chapters may set up a course with pylons in a parking lot. You won't be out there to improve your lap time, but instead, improve your car control skill. A skilled drifter will connect all "clipping points" (a point where the front of the vehicle is as close to the corner as you can get, before transitioning into the next corner) around the track, and never straighten the vehicle out. This takes lots of practice, which is why many people choose to participate in these local events, to hone their skills before they are eligible to move into a more competitive series.

Because drifting is more abusive on cars, as well as drivers, than autocross, safety requirements are usually stricter. In addition to a Snell-rated helmet, most drifting sanctions also require safety harnesses and roll cages. You'll also go through tires much quicker drifting than on an autocross course. Although drifting is more expensive than autocross, you can still build a car relatively cheaply to participate.

Any rear-wheel-drive car is allowed to participate in drifting, so you don't necessarily need the newest and highest horsepower modern car. The most popular cars for drifting can be had for relatively cheap. The Nissan 240SX and Toyota Corolla (the '80s rear-wheel-drive model) are a couple of the most popular vehicles to participate with because of their very neutral handling. Sometimes you'll hear people refer to these cars by their chassis code (S13 and S14 for the 240SX and AE86 for the Corolla).

Now that you know the basics of drifting, be prepared to suck. What I mean by that is it is much more difficult than it looks. Many people think it looks easy because they've done some drifting in an icy or wet parking lot, but it can be much more difficult on dry asphalt. Many of the people you will find at local drifting events live and breathe drifting, and practice every opportunity they get. But just like any racing event, everyone has to start somewhere. So don't hesitate to ask questions! Other drivers embrace competition. They want you to learn. Go to enough of these events, and soon you'll be the one teaching the newcomers how to do it.

The bottom line is, if you want to race your car and don't have the budget of a factory-backed Ferrari race team, check out autocrossing. There is no better tool to learn your car and how it handles, and it can be done on a very limited budget. If you have a rear-wheel-drive car, you don't mind getting it dinged up a bit, and want to learn superior car control, look into drifting. It's a bit more expensive, but you can still do it on a reasonable budget. Most importantly with either of these events, have fun and be safe!

Pets

Pets are strongly discouraged for health and safety reasons. If you cannot make other arrangements, your pet must be on a leash and policing after it is required. Your pet must be under your control at all times, and you are responsible for its actions. Any unsafe action by your pet may result in expulsion without refund.

Receiving

Any items sent to Carlisle Events should be addressed to: 504 Cavalry Road, Carlisle, PA 17013. Packages are in receiving outside Gate 5.

Conditions

Dangerous or slippery conditions can exist on the Fairgrounds. Due to the nature of the goods displayed, heavy equipment and moving vehicles are present. Carlisle Events cannot be responsible for the conduct of vendors and patrons entering the premises. Those who enter the Fairgrounds do so at their own risk.

Driving On-Grounds

For safety reasons, the use of all personal means of transportation (bikes, scooters, golf carts, ATVs, motorcycles or minibikes, etc.) is forbidden on the Fairgrounds from 7 a.m. to 5 p.m. on all show days. No unlicensed drivers may operate these vehicles at any time. Verification of insurance is required.
